Kari Helene Bekkelund, evaluation.

I think the first home exam was ok. I have unfortunately missed the exercises from the beginning and until now, and I made the home exam in one day. I used some more time to give it more functionality and more quality, but at least i think the difficulty was ok.

I didn't have any big problems at all. I used a couple of hours to start, but after that it was quite forward. I liked that it was quite easy to find tutorials/youtube videos, which was easy to understand/use.

At the end i am happy with the result. I got one bad solution in my code, and I will fix it if I have the time, but i'm busy throughout the weekend.

I think the most difficult, and the part i still struggle is when to use &, * or nothing. Also why it seem pointers and arrays can be used together, and sometimes not.
